MISSING FOR EIGHT MONTHS.

The family of John David Boling, of Lyons, Hancock county, are alarmed over his disappearance, which occurred eight months ago, and are now taking steps to ascertain his whereabouts. He left Lyons for Owensboro to be to go from there to the coal mines at Fenley to seek a position. Since then his family has not heard a word from him. The News' authority for the above information is a son of Mr. Boling's who was in the city Saturday making inquiries about his father. The son has been waiting patiently for his father to return home, but his continued and unaccountable absence and his failure to locate him have made it look like a case of "mysterious disappearance". It is said that Boling formerly conducted a variety theater in Owensboro and at one time resided in Tinsboro, Ind. He has been a man of means and is known to many people in Breckinridge county.

Resolutions of Respect.

Whereas, It has pleased an all-wise God to remove from among us our dear Sister, Mrs. P. D. Plank, be it resolved:

That we, the members of the Missionary and Aid Society, extend to the family our tenderest and most heartfelt sympathy, in their sad bereavement, to the friends, relatives and community our regret at the great loss they have severally sustained, and that this Missionary and Aid Society has lost a faithful and sincere member, whose place cannot be filled.

That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon our minutes, a copy sent to the News and a copy sent to the bereaved family.

Changes in Barber Business.

Judson Combes, the popular barber, left yesterday for Owensboro, to re-enter the barber business at that city. However, he will continue to be the proprietor of the local tonorial parlors in the Dr. Lightfoot office building. Jesse Weatherbolt and Chas. Ryan, who have both returned to this city after being in the business in Owensboro, will conduct the parlors for Mr. Combes.

Mr. Combes began the barber business in this city in September, 1903, and built up a good trade. For several months he has had associated with him Ed Sapp, of Haverhill, who resigned his position Monday and returned to Haverhill yesterday. Mr. Combes family will not return to Owensboro until the first of February.

The Clarion a Little Late.

Last week's Hancock Clarion says: "Mrs. Dood Moorman, well known and who formerly lived about Skellman, died a few days since in Cloverport."

We suppose that the Clarion refers to Mrs. Minerva Moorman, better known to her friends and relatives as Mrs. Dood Moorman, who died in this city about two months ago.

Form Society of Equity

Bewleyville, Ky., Jan. 19. (Special.)—Thos J. Jolly, Department President of the American Society of Equity, organized a society at Shumate schoolhouse, in Meade county, Saturday, January 9. The following officers were elected: Noah Hicks, President; W. H. Shumate, Vice-President; and Hon. W. A. Stith, Secretary.

Fine Flock of Dominicks

Mrs. Lon Glascock, of McDaniels, has a fine flock of Dominicks, perhaps the best in the county. The fowls are large and tall and average eight and nine pounds each. It was remembered that, last year, Mrs. Glascock sold a number of hens, which brought her on an average of seventy cents each.

Lot Owners Cloverport Cemetery

A meeting of the lot holders of the Cloverport Cemetery Co. will be held at the Breckinridge Bank Thursday, Jan. 29 at 2 o'clock, p. m. for the purpose of electing a new Board of Directors. All lot owners are requested to be present.

HARDINSBURG NEWS BUDGET.

Hardinsburg, Ky., Jan. 19. (Special.)—The County Medical Society met last Wednesday afternoon at the office of Drs. A. M. and J. E. Kincheese Dr. L. B. Moorman, of Irvington, read a paper on Tracheitis and Dr. A. M. Kincheese on Epilepsy. A general discussion of these subjects followed the reading of the papers. The Society meets monthly and the officers desire a more general attendance of the physicians of the county.

Will Not Abolish District.

Hardinsburg, Ky., Jan. 19. (Special.)—At a meeting of a number of citizens of the Bandy School District, held at the office of Joel H. Pile, the county School Superintendent, last Monday, it was decided not to establish a new school district in that neighborhood, as had been proposed.

Supervisors are in Session.

Hardinsburg, Ky., Jan. 19. (Special.)—The County Board of Supervisors met again at the court house today, to hear the complaints of the tax payers who have been raised, and pass finally upon the lists. They will remain in session four days.

Sells Carload of Mules.

Hardinsburg, Ky., Jan. 19. (Special.)—Vic Robertson sold a carload of mules to Mr. Pemberton, of Elizabethtown, last week.

Some Tobacco Moving.

Hardinsburg, Ky., Jan. 19. (Special.)—A few loads of tobacco were delivered here Monday.

Appointment is Deserved.

Dr. L. B. Moorman, of Irvington, has been appointed County Health Officer and Secretary of the Pension Board. The appointment of Dr. Moorman to these two responsible positions is well deserved, as it attests to his efficiency as a physician and is a reward for faithful and valued service to the people of the county while fulfilling the duties of his profession in a private way.

In Honor of Miss Orr.

Miss Mary Moorman entertained Friday afternoon in honor of her guest, Miss Ollie Orr, of Henderson. Besides the hostess and guest were: Misses Margaret and Elizabeth Skillman, Nell Gregory, Georgia White, Lela Owen, Ethel Oelze, Eliza and Eva May, Adella Moorman and Mesdames R. L. Oelze and Etta Evans.

Much Ice is Coming

Great masses of ice, which broke loose from the gorges at Cincinnati several days ago, are coming down the Ohio and river men are apprehensive lest the weather should turn and deny colder and the flow of ice should freeze together. If warm weather continues through the week it is believed that the ice will be soft and mushy and do no damage.

Rufus Murray Dead.

Mr. Rufus Murray, brother of A. H. Murray, of this city, died and was buried in Washington, D. C., last week. Mr. Murray's home was in Washington and he had a position in the Treasury Department.

The Weather in Iowa.

Thos. L. Caley writes from Glenwood, Iowa under date of Jan. 16: "Having nice weather out here now, streets dusty, thermometer 14 degrees below zero, cutting ice fifteen inches thick, and yet people in this good warm climate shiver and nearly freeze in a temperature of 30 above."

Capt. Seargent Ill.

The many friends of Capt. W. H. Seargent will be sorry to learn of his serious illness at his home in Fordville. He has been confined to his bed for four weeks with an attack of Bright's disease. His condition was somewhat improved last Monday but there is little hope of his being a well man again. Capt. Seargent has been on the branch of the Henderson Route for ten or twelve years and a more faithful, efficient public servant never served a people. Every man, woman and child along the road is his friend.

Had Relatives Here

John Albert Faith, a well-known young man of Owensboro, died in this city Thursday morning at 10 o'clock of consumption, at the residence of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Faith. The funeral was held at the residence and the interment was at Elmwood Friday morning. Mr. and Mrs. Judson Combes and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hoffman, of this city, attended the funeral. Mrs. Combes was a sister of Mr. Faith and Mr. Hoffman a half uncle.

$5,000 for you in our World's Fair guessing contest. See page 3 for particulars.

Over the County.

Robertson Bros. shipped a carload of mules last Saturday to Memphis, Tenn. Cook & Taylor, of Canter, sold ten head of Dursey in Louisville last week at a handsome profit.

The Hon. D. C. Moorman came home from Frankfort last Saturday and returned Monday.

WHAT'S DOING AT FRANKFORT.

It is expected that, by the end of this week or the middle of next week, the three most important measures before the General Assembly will have passed both houses and have reached Governor Beckham's desk for the approval that there awaits them. These three measures are the Capitol Appropriation Bill, the School Book Bill, and the World's Fair Appropriation Bill. The first provides for an appropriation of sufficient money to erect a new capital building. The second provides for state uniformity and maximum prices of school books. The third provides for an appropriation of $75,000 for the Kentucky representation at St. Louis. A number of the three bills have already passed one or the other of the two houses.

Senator (Mrs. Richardson, of this district introduced a bill last week appropriating $75,000 for enlargement of the Western Asylum at Hopkinsville. Representative A. S. Thompson, of Meade introduced a bill providing for the death penalty for robbery and burglary, one appropriating $1,500 annually for additional clerical assistance to the State Treasurer, and one increasing the penalty for road overhauling to perform their duties. The bills were referred to the proper committees.

Making Contracts This Week.

F. D. Whiteneck, manager of the J. T. Polk company's local canning factory, is making contracts with the farmers who will grow tomatoes and corn for the use of the factory this year. The distance of the farms, where the crops are grown, from this city may be as much as fifteen miles. It is the intention of the company to contract with farmers on both sides of the Ohio within this distance, both up and down the stream, as the crop can be quickly delivered by boat. Mr. Whiteneck began making contracts on Monday.

Manager Whiteneck and W. M. McKown, a large stockholder in the canners, were in Tinsboro Thursday to meet the farmers of Tinsboro to talk over the matter of raising crops for the canners this year.

Contracts for the growing of peas, fruits and berries will not be made until later.

Surprise Birthday Party.

Miss Kate Oelze gave a surprise party for Gladys Miller Saturday afternoon to celebrate her eleventh birthday. The latter's following little friends were present: Virginia Hudson, Elizabeth Skillman, Lela LaVene, Eloise Nolte, Sannette and Francis Sawyer, Jeanette Burn, Lenora and Virginia McGowan, Nina Bruns, Mildred Bahage and Julia Hiss.

Eleven Acres Bring $1,000.

ADDITIONAL EDITORIAL.

TROUBLE IN THE FAR EAST

One of the countries before the public eye at present is Manchuria, the northernmost province of China, because of the trouble between Japan and Russia. About some questions involving this province there seems to be a controversy in the public mind, owing to varying statements made by the press. One of these statements, frequently repeated, is that Russia has failed to withdraw her troops from Manchuria as per her agreement. During 1903 Russia made efforts to do this, but marched most of the troops back to their old quarters again. During the Boxer uprisings Russia had sent troops into Manchuria to protect her immense railroad interests, and, under agreements with China in 1906 and 1908, she has a legal right to keep troops in Manchuria for this purpose. Properly speaking, Russia has kept her troops in Manchuria as a police force, the necessity for which is admitted.

What Japan wants in Manchuria—and Korea, is a free trade. Since the war between China and Japan the latter empire has been the largest foreign market for Manchurian products and the Japanese, of course, are trying to push their manufactures where they are buying so freely. The country in dispute furnishes a promising and profitable field for Japanese progress. It has an area of 350,000 square miles, a population of 2,500,000 inhabitants, every acre in prairie and valley teems with profitable crops, and the mountains are rich with minerals.

A late dispatch from St. Petersburg, with regard to the Russo-Japanese situation in the Orient, was in part:

"Neither Russia nor Japan desires war," said the Secretary of the Japanese legation. "Japan doesn't claim a protectorate over Korea. She only demands the right of free trade in Korea and Manchuria."

"Japanese trade with Manchuria could be established in such a manner as to give Russia equivalent advantages for any loss of the opening of the Manchurian markets. Russia's interests could be further safeguarded by a Russo-Japanese commercial treaty."

CHAPTER XIV.

AT THIS brief hostile out-break in the garden before the break in the morning breeze, the young girl, the driver of the car, but that quaking individual had taken advantage of the excitement to disappear.

The young girl, too, had availed herself of the opportunity while he was at the window and vanished. "Why, the slippery little devil!" he exclaimed, staring around the room, confounded for the moment. Then, recovering himself, he hurriedly tried the chamber, more apprehensive lest she should get out of the manor than that the tenants should get in.

For the moment he almost forgot the antenators. He hastily traversed the upper hall, but was rewarded with no sight of her. He gazed down the stairs eagerly, with no better result. The front door was still closed as he had left it.

"Yes, she's gone," he repeated. "What a fool I was to have trusted her to herself for a moment!"

A new unguising arose, and he started. What if she had succeeded in leaving the manor? He knew and trusted Little Thunder and his cohorts. What respect would they have for her? For all he had done it was nevertheless intolerable to think she might be in possible danger—from others save himself. A wave of compunction swept over him. After all, he loved her and, loving her, could not but think of any calamity befalling her.

"Surely I've gone soft over the stroller," he thought as his own position returned to him in all its seriousness. "Well, what's done is done. Let them come!"

With no definite purpose of searching further, he nevertheless walked mechanically down the corridor and suddenly discovered Constance in a blind passage, where she had inadvertently fled.

At the end of this narrow hall a window looked almost directly out upon the circular brick dovecot, now an indistinct outline, and on both sides were doors, one of which was vainly endeavoring to open when he approached.

"Unfortunately, the door is locked," he said ironically. "Alas, alas, as this spot has no strategic advantages, suppose we change our line of defense."

Realizing how futile would be resistance, she accompanied him one more to the chamber in the wing, where he had determined to make his last defense. After closing and locking the door he looked out of many cracks on the mantle.

The flicking glare fell upon the young actress standing, hand upon her heart, looking with hatred into his eyes, and Manville, with ominous expression, breathing over that chance which sent the leeches to the manor on that night of night.

The violent crash of a heavy body at the front of the house and a tumult of voices on the porch, suggested by a din in the hall, announced that the first barrier had been overcome and the antenators were in possession of the lower floor of the manor. Manville had started to his feet, and when the anticipation in the young girl's eyes held him to the spot, Manville, she was the more desirous. Her reserve was fired in his flames, and at that moment, while his life hung in the balance, he forgot the relief he had received and how she had nearly played upon him.

Words fell from his lips, unperceived, telling, eloquent, voiding those desires which had grown in the solitude of the manor. Passionately he addressed her, knowing the climax to his difficulties was at hand. Once more he could not be at peace without her, he vowed, and that outcome had been inevitable. All this he uttered impetuously, at times involuntarily, but he concluded she only clasped her hands helplessly, solely conscious of the uproar below, which spread from the main hall to the adjoining rooms.

"They are coming; they are coming!" she said, and Manville stood aghast.

But while anger and resentment were at strife within him some one tried the door of the chamber and, finding it locked, set up a shout. Immediately the prowlers in the wings, the searchers in the kitchen and the stragglers below, congregated in the main hall. Footsteps were heard ascending rapidly, pausing in doubt at the head of the stairway, not knowing whether to turn to the right or to the left.

"Here they are!" called out the man at the door.

"You meddling fool!" exclaimed Manville, lifting a revolver and discharging it in the direction of the door. Instantly the burst, passing through the panel of the door, found its mark, for the report was followed by a cry of pain.

This plaint was answered from the distance, and a number of antenators hastened to the spot. Manville, in vicious humor, moved toward the threshold. One of the panels was already broken and an arm thrust into the opening. The land baron bent forward and coiled quickly his weapon to the member, the loud discharge being answered by a howl from the wounded leechholder. Manville again raised his weapon when an exclamation from across caused him to stop. Instantly, in time to see a figure spring unexpectedly into the room from the balcony. The land baron stood in amazement, crying out with the words, "Heigh ho! out with them!"

He appeared so suddenly from an unguarded quarter, but before he could recover his self possession his hand was held, and the revolver fell with a clatter to the floor.

His assailant quickly grasped the weapon, presenting it to the breast of the surprised landowner, who looked into the face of an unknown antagonist, but to the stern, familiar countenance of Saint-Proper.

"What are you doing here?" the land baron asked involuntarily recoiled from his own weapon.

The soldier contemptuously thrust the revolver into his pocket. "A good one," he said coldly, "and in a moment they'll be knocking the door—will be here."

"You think to turn me over to them?" exclaimed the other violently. "But you do not know me! This is no quarrel of yours. Give me my weapon and let me fight it out with them!"

"By heaven, I am half minded to take you at your word! But you shall have one chance, a slender one! There is the window. It opens on the porch."

"And if I refuse?"

"They have brought a rope with them. Go to the window."

Manville hesitated, but as he pondered the antenators were effectually shattering the heavy door.

"The work is here," he said, and the drawers of water and levers of wood were raised. Hang the land baron! Hang the feudal lord!

A lever man than Manville might have been cowed by that chorus, but after pausing irresolutely, weighing the chances of life and death, gazing jealously upon the face of the aggressive girl and venomously at the intruder, the land baron finally made a virtue of necessity, and he sprang upon the balcony, none too soon, for a moment later the door burst open and an insurmountable element rushed into the room. Not until then did the soldier discover that he had overlooked the possible unpleasantness of remaining in the land baron's stead, for the antenators promptly thrust themselves upon him, and he was overpowered.

Manville, thick ribbed man of extraordinary stature, taller than the soldier if not so well knit, a Goliath, indeed, with arms long as windmills.

"Stand back, lady," he roared, "and let me throw them!" And tick the toll-man rushed at Saint-Proper with furious attack. Soon they were chest to chest, each with his chin on his opponent's right shoulder and each grasping the other around the body with joined hands.

Tick's muscles grew taut like mighty whiplashes, his chest expanded with power, he girded his loins for a great effort, and it seemed as if he would make good his boast. Hither in the grasp of those arms, tight as iron bands, the soldier staggered. Once more the other heaved, and Saint-Proper nearly fell, his superior agility alone saving him.

Then slowly, almost imperceptibly, the soldier managed to face to the right, twisting so as to place his left leg against his adversary's only chance—a trick of wrestling unknown to the leechholder but clumsy opponent.

Gathering all his strength in a last determined effort, he stooped forward suddenly and lifted in his turn. One powerful moment—a moment of doubt and suspense—and the proud representative of the barn burners was buried over the shoulder of the soldier, landing with a crash on the floor, where he lay dazed and immobile.

Breathing hard, his chest rising and falling with labored effort, Saint-Proper felt back against the wall. The antenators, quickly recovering from their surprise, gave him no time to regain his strength, and the combat promised a rapid and disastrous conclusion for the soldier when suddenly a white figure flashed before him, confronting the tenants with pale face and shining eyes. A slender child, only a girlish form, yet the fearlessness of her manner, the eloquence of her glance—for her lips were silent—kept them back for the instant.

But fiercer passions were at work among them, the desire for retaliation and bitter hatred of the past, the spitefully disappointed air of feeling of compunction or any tendency to water.

"Kill him before his ladylove!" cried a piercing voice from behind, and they not murder my husband before me? Kill him if you are men!"

And, pressing irresistibly to the front, appeared the woman of the lower hall, and had been shot by the deputies. Her features, once soft and matronly, flamed with uncontrollable passions.

Gently the soldier, now partly recovering his strength, thrust the young girl behind him as, pushing to the fore, the woman regarded him vengeancefully. But in her eyes the hatred and bitter avenger faded slowly, to be replaced by perplexity, which in turn gave way to wonder, while his bright arms, raised, thrust forward and back, fell passively to her side. At first, astonished, doubting, she did not speak, then her lips moved mechanically.

"That is not the lady," she cried, staring at him in disappointment that knew no language.

At this unexpected announcement the antenators, with feelings of incredulity were heard on all sides.

"Woman, would you shield your husband's murderer?" exclaimed an over-zealous barn burner.

"Shield him?" she retorted as if aroused from a trance. "No, no! I'm not here for that! But this is not the pattern. His every feature is burned into my heart! I tell you it is not he. Yet he should be here. Did I not see him driving toward the manor?" And she gazed wildly around.

For a moment following this impulsive outburst their rough guesses sought one another, and the soldier quickly took advantage of this cessation of hostilities.

"No, I am not the land baron," he interposed.

"You aren't!" growled the disappointed leechholder. "Then who are you? An antenator?" he added suspiciously.

"I am no friend of his," continued the soldier in a firm voice. "Ton had one purpose in seeking him; I another. He carried off this lady. I was looking him when I met you in the grove."

"Then how came you here—in this room?"

"By the way of a tree, the branch of which reaches to the window."

"The land baron was in this room a moment ago. Where is he now?"

For auster Saint-Proper pointed to the window.

"Then you let him—"

"Were wasting time," impatiently shouted the land baron, who had claimed the soldier's identity to the pattern. "Come!" with an oath—"Do you want to lose him after all? You let him go! And this one left our man!"

For a second the crowd wavered, then with a vigorous effort they shot from the room, disappearing as they had come. Led by Little Thunder, who, being a man of peace, had discreetly remained without, they had reached the gate in their beating run, and when they were met by a body of horsemen about to turn into the yard as the antenators were hurrying out. At the sight of this formidable band the leechholders immediately scattered. Taken equally by surprise, the others made little effort to intercept them, and soon they had vanished over field and down dell. Then the horsemen turned, rode through the avenue of trees and drew up noisily before the portico.

From their window the soldier and his companion observed the abrupt encounter at the entrance of the manor grounds and the dispersion of the leechholders like a flock of frightened game. Constance, who had breathlessly watched the flight of the erstwhile assailants, felt her doubts weakened as the horsemen drew up before the door.

"Are they coming back?" she asked, involuntarily clasping the arm of her companion.

She who had been so courageous and self-controlled throughout that long, trying day on a sudden felt strongly weak and dependent. He looked from the narrow cleft to command the view ahead, striving to pierce the gloom, and she, following his example, gazed over his shoulder. Either a gust of air extinguished the light in the candelabra on the mantle or the talow dip had burnt itself out, for the room was now in total darkness, so that they could dimly see without being seen.

"These men are not the ones who just fled," he replied.

"Who are they?" she half whispered, drawing unconsciously closer to that moment of jeopardy, her face dimly lit by a cur's light.

Below the men were dismounting, tying their horses among the trees. Like a noisy band of troopers, they were talking excitedly, but their words were indistinguishable.

"Why do you suppose they fled from them?" she continued.

Was it a tendril of the vine that touched his cheek gently? He started, for his face toward the base in the open borderland.

"Clearly these men are not the leechholders. They may be seeking you. She turned eagerly from the window in the darkness their hands met. Momentary compunction made her pause.

"I haven't yet thanked you," she said, he felt the cold, nervous pressure of her hands on his. "You must have ridden very hard and very far?"

His hand closed suddenly upon one of hers. He was not thinking of the ride, but of how she had placed herself beside him in his moment of peril, how she had held them—lost—but—a moment—yet long enough. "They're coming in! They're down stairs!" she exclaimed excitedly.

A flickering light below suddenly threw dim moving shadows upon the ceiling of the hall. As she spoke she stepped forward and stumbled over the debris at the door. His arm was about her almost before she started exclaiming, and the fall of the pattern over her hips, for a moment her shapely young figure rested against him. But quickly she extricated herself, and they picked their way cautiously over the bestrewn threshold into the hall.

At the halustrade they paused. Reconsidering at the turn, they were afforded full survey of the lower hall, where the latest comers had taken possession. Few in numbers, the gathering had come to a dead stop, regarding in surprise the broken door and the furniture wantonly demolished.

With unusual power of face the young girl stepped from behind the sheltering post. Her hand, resting doubtfully upon the balustrade, sought in unobtrusive appeal her companion's arm, and they descended together, the bright eyes of the soldier and the burning lips to her snowy brow.

In the partial darkness the men ill discerned the figures, but divined their bearing in the relation of Constancy to the soldier, and with pneumonia in the next chapter—Cincinnati Enquirer.

FACTORY LOADED SHOTGUN SHELLS.

It's not sentiment—that makes the most successful shots about Winchester Factory Loaded Shells. It's the results they give. It's their entire reliability, evenness of pattern and uniform shooting. Winchester "Leader" shells, loaded with smokeless powder, are the best shells on the market. Winchester "Repeater" shells loaded with smokeless powder are cheap in price but not in quality. Winchester "New Rival" black powder shells are the favorite black powder load on the market on account of their shooting and reloading qualities. Try either of these brands and you'll be well pleased. They are THE SHELLS THE CHAMPIONS SHOOT.

Balloon's Impetuosity. Of Balzac it is stated that whenever he was hard at his work he would "like the fowls," as he himself put it, "at 7 in the evening. He was called at 7 in the morning and wrote till 8; then took another hour and a half of sleep; then after a light meal went to work again until 4 in the afternoon; then he took a bath, saw a few friends, took perhaps a short walk and immediately after dinner went off to bed.

"I shall be compelled," he wrote, "to lead this life for a few months without stopping in order not to be swamped by those terrible fits that are due." And yet he was always hard up for money.

Street Arabs Who Rise.
Newspapers and street Arabs often make admirable clerks. The way they work into commercial houses is astonishing. A large percentage of public and prominent business men of America began as newspaper boys, but probably no one realizes how many work their way up from the gutter to wealth and influence. They begin as hangers on and are recruited from the ranks of every class of street gamins. Their wits have been sharpened by contact with the sordid side of life and by observation in the school of the street. They know the value of friends. So they are to be found at the door of every big house, ready at any time to run an errand, always at hand to pick up an umbrella or open a door. And before the people who regularly pass in and out of the doors of the place realize it one of these little chaps they have become accustomed to see in the payroll. Somebody has bought him a six dollar suit of clothes to put him more at ease with the people and weather, and he is on the road that in a surprising number of cases leads to success.—New York Press.

Electricity Among the Japanese.
The Japanese understood electricity as an attractive force, of which they were very secret. The Greeks and Romans also knew something of the magnet as an attractive force known to modern science as an electrical attraction, something like the position of the Chinese. They are supposed to be ignorant of its popularity, though in their secret records there are mentions of sacred forces which none but God knew and must not be tampered with by man.

Esculentists For Revenue.
Some years ago a British warship visited St. Kilda in exceptionally calm weather. As the natives of the place had never seen a steamer, the captain good naturedly offered to take them on an hour's cruise, which was readily accepted by a great many. On their return the captain, seeing them all standing in rows on the quarter deck, asked the cause. He was at once informed that they were waiting to be paid.

ANTS KIDNAP THEIR FOES.

Raid Neighboring Villages and Capture of New Prisoners.
Dr. H. C. McCook tells of a species of kidnapping ants which make organized attacks on other ant villages for the purpose of capturing slaves. Here is an account of the attack:

"At last the muster is complete. Mysteriously, but effectively, the signal 'Forward' is given, and the column moves from the hill. There is no regular alignment, but a show of solidarity, a holding of the ranks within close compass and touch—a 'tight step,' in fact. There is no general; there are no subordinate officers, but such is the sympathetic unity that they seem to move in response to one will and command. If every warrior is a law unto himself the law no blinds and animates and compels all alike that the ends of an organized cohort are served.

"Assault, battle and pillage follow quickly upon the sortie. The objective point of the march is not far away. A hundred yards distant is a Pecos village. The route thereto lies across the edge of a grove, over a footpath, along a fallen tree, under whose shelter and abided by tufts of grass is the devoted commune. It is feeble in numbers, and there is a bare show of defense as the footscooters hurl themselves upon the hill and plunge into the open gates. The villagers flee at the first onset through unassailed or secret passages. Some run the gauntlet through the assailing ranks. All who can carry a part of the family treasures—eggs, larvae and pupae. Like their Bredonighian brothers of the human race, when disaster befalls their first care is for their offspring. The fugitives mount into nearby clumps of low wood plants, whence they look down upon the devastation of their homes—with what feelings? For one suppose that the midgots do feed, though sometimes he would fain hope otherwise.

"Meanwhile the invaders issue from the gates, bearing in their jaws the Pecos young and cocky, an adult. They take the home trail, but not in ordered ranks. It is go as you please now. They are welcomed back by their black confederates, who receive the captives and take them—their very own sisters perhaps—into the domestic quarters. The soldiers hurry back to the scene of action, for their work is not yet finished."—Harper's Magazine.

A Very Close Call.
"I stuck to my engine, although every joint ached and every nerve was agitated with pain," writes C. W. Bellamy, a locomotive fireman, of Burlington, Iowa. "I was weak and pale, without any appetite and all ran down. As I was about to give up I got a bottle of Electric Bitters, and after taking it, I felt as well as I ever did in my life." Weak, sickly, run-down people always gain new life, strength and vigor from their use. Try them. Satisfaction guaranteed by Short & Haynes. Price 50 cents.

The Joke on Her.
"I suppose being the wife of a humorist is a continuous joke," said her former schoolmate.
"Yes," she sadly sighed, looking at her faded jacket, "and it's on me."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Pleasantable.
It takes a woman to death to plan if she had an income of $20,000 a year how much good she could do with the $100 of it she could not spend for clothes.—New York Press.

For a bad taste in the month take a few doses of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. Price 25 cents. Warrented to cure. For sale by Short & Haynes.

The Saracens and the Moon.
The Saracens called the moon Ca-bar the Great, and the crescent still sustains the Turkish mosques and is emblazoned on the green standard of the prophet. Bheglal mentions a story that Mohammed "wished to pass with his disciples to a person transfigured in a supernatural light and that the credulity of his followers saw the moon, or the moon's light, descend upon him, pierce his garments and replenish him."

"That veneration for the moon which still forms a national, or, rather, religious, characteristic of the Mohammedans may perhaps have its foundation in the elder superstition or pagan idea of the Arabs."

500 Cash Prizes
1st Prize, $5,000. 2nd Prize, $2,500 3d Prize $1,000
Seven Special Prizes of $500.00 Each for Early Estimates.

Every subscriber to THE BRECKENRIDGE NEWS will have an opportunity to share in these magnificent prizes if he wishes to participate in the Great World's Fair Contest in which these prizes are given.

The subject matter of this great contest is the Total Paid Admissions during May, the first month of the Great St. Louis World's Fair. Without doubt, the World's Fair which will open at St. Louis on May 1, will be the largest fair ever held in the world, and every man, woman and child should be interested in this great enterprise.

Conditions of this Great Contest.

Every subscriber who remits $1.00, the regular subscription price for a year's subscription to THE BRECKENRIDGE NEWS, will receive one certificate which will secure for him any prize which his estimates entitle him to claim.

When you send in your subscription, also send your estimates of the total paid admissions at the World's Fair during May, the first month of the Fair. Write your name, address and estimate in the Subscription Blank below and mail it to THE BRECKENRIDGE NEWS. The contest will close at midnight, April 30th, 1904, and no estimate received after that hour will be allowed. The official record of the Secretary of the World's Fair showing the total paid attendance during May, the first month of the Fair, will determine who are entitled to the prizes, and the awards will be made by a disinterested committee of prominent judges during the first week in June. As this contest will close on April 30, the day before the Fair opens, all will have an equal chance to win these prizes. Those who estimate or guess NOW will have a chance to win a Special Prize and just as good a chance to win the Capital Prize of $5,000.00 as the one who guesses on the last day of the contest.

The money to pay the prizes is deposited in the Central Savings Bank, Detroit, Michigan, and can be used for no other purpose. In case of a tie, or that two or more estimators are equally correct, prizes will be divided equally between them.

HERE IS THE LIST OF PRIZES.

For the nearest correct estimate or guess	$5,000
For the second nearest correct estimate or guess	2,500
For the third nearest correct estimate or guess	1,000

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 30, 1904.

We hear no clock coming from any one over the World's Fair appropriation.
It seems to have the universal indorsement of all classes. Our representatives deserve credit for its prompt passage.

What the people want in the Panama business is less talk and more digging. If Joe Blackman still persists in standing in the way of progress and civilization he ought to be snubbed out. But Dave Smith will attend to his grand stand play.

We are glad that "Boss" Mitt has given a good place to Charlie Miller.
His appointment meets with the approval of both Democrats and Republicans. Charlie has a responsible position and is fully competent to take care of it. No more genial, kind hearted boy ever went out from this county and here's hoping that he may come up to the full measure of his duty in his state, to his party and to those unfortunate ones over whom he is sent to control.

What the farmers in this section want to do is to go into goat raising.
Goats thrive on bushes, in thickets, on grass, on any old land that is turned out to waste. There's money in the goat. The Angora is best for this country. Here's what it's good for:
Mohair is made from the fleece and mohair is valuable and always in demand. No better meat than the flesh of an Angora and the kid is better than lamb. It's milk is richer than the cow's. It's leather makes fine boots and shoes, gloves and bindings. Pelts go into fine robes and wraps. Get a pair and start in. They don't cost much and they are worth looking after. Raise more goats and lose tobacco.

We are to have the boys of our neighboring town, Haverhill, with us next week. They are coming to make us laugh and they tell us they can do it. There are twenty of them in all, all good, nice boys, just out for a little innocent fun. Let us all turn out and welcome them to this town. Home minstrels—negro minstrels, no letter show on earth than a good home minstrel troupe. Way back in the sixties this town had a minstrel show. It was a good one too.
Nat Batty, Dave Murray, (then Welsh) Bill Stuart were the leading characters. And they were good in their line. They made fun for the boys and girls and the older ones too.
Happy old times were those. It is pleasant to get back into your boy-hood days if it is only for a glimpse.

President Roosevelt's special message to the Senate on the Panama affair is one of the ablest, most illuminative and most constructive state papers that have emanated from the pen of a Chief Magistrate—Harper's Weekly.
Most people and most papers look out for the worst things that can be said of a man especially if he be in the public service and on the other side of the question. We don't believe this is right. We look for the good in every man and woman, whether they be on our side or not. It's a mighty mean man or woman but what has some good traits. What the weekly says of Mr. Roosevelt's paper we believe to be true.
The weekly knows a good thing when it sees it. We don't always see the best things about our President.

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this city most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by
it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart
failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell.

Kidney troubles most always result from a derangement of the kidneys and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly, you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmor's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and cancer remedy.

It cures inability to hold urine and scaling pains, passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the pleasant effect of Swamp-Root is soon remarked. It stands the highest for its wonderful results in the most distressing cases.
Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar bottle bottles. You may have a sample bottle of Swamp-Root sent free by mail. Address: Dr. Kilmor & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper.
Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmor's Swamp-Root, address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Are Pleased With the News.

PATSVILLE, Ky., Jan. 11, 1904.

Mr. J. D. BABBAGE, Cloverport, Ky.

Dear Editor—Everybody around and about our town are very much pleased with your paper.

They consider the News as one of the best papers that has ever been sent into our town.

And, I would be perfectly lost, could I not have the News to read every week, and I will say, I wish it could be published every day, because it contains news from all over the State of Kentucky.

Those whose homes are without this paper should try it and see for themselves.

Wishing you great success in the coming future, I remain,

Yours respectfully,

What WALTHER'S PEPTONIZED PORT Is and does

It is simply a good, honest, commonsense food tonic—a combination of rich Port Wine and Pure Pepsin,— nothing else. It is not a cure-all, or a medicine for acute or chronic diseases.

It does not take the place of the doctor. It does strengthen weak digestive organs, tones and builds up the impaired, impoverished nerves, muscles and blood, and promotes a perfect condition of vigorous health. It is a valuable remedy for dyspepsia, indigestion, and stomach troubles generally—for weakened vitality and impaired strength. It is a preparation of great worth for nursing mothers, tired women, old folks, invalids and conva-lescents. It is highly recommended by physicians and prescribed by them —both its constituents being of long demonstrated worth.

NOTICE TAX-PAYERS!

I have promised some to notify them before I was COM-PELLED to have their taxes. So I take this means of telling all persons owing taxes to get ready to settle. I must have it. Now I am going to give you the remainder of this month to get ready—that is, collect up your money. After this month, be ready, for you will be visited and your money must come. You can't put off death when the time comes, and it is said only death and taxes are certain. I am dealing fair with all. I don't need your money personally, but the man I owe does need his. Now, if your property is advertised, who is to blame?

Respectfully,

Loss of Flesh

When you can't eat breakfast, take Scott's Emulsion. When you can't eat bread and butter, take Scott's Emulsion. When you have been living on a milk diet and want something a little more nourishing, take Scott's Emulsion.

To get fat you must eat fat. Scott's Emulsion is a great fattener, a great strength giver.

Those who have lost flesh want to increase all body tissues, not only fat. Scott's Emulsion increases them all, bone, flesh, blood and nerve.

For invalids, for convalescents, for consumptives, for weak children, for all who need flesh, Scott's Emulsion is a rich and comfortable food, and a natural tonic.

Scott's Emulsion for bone, flesh, blood and nerve.

We will send you a free sample. Be sure that this picture is the form of a fish on the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy. SCOTT & BOWNE, CHEMISTS, 409 Pearl St., N. Y. 50c and $1.15 all druggists.

WAS HONORED AND BELOVED.

Dr. J. W. Meadow, who, for thirty-five years, has been a physician at Shreve, in Ohio county, just over the line from Breckenridge, and who was beloved by hundreds of people in both counties, died at his home at Shreve last Wednesday night, after all these years spent in constant toil. When he feeble health before his death he said: "There is nothing the matter with me; I'm just worn out."

Born and reared in Ohio county, he graduated from the Louisville Medical college, began his practice a mile from his boyhood home and soon became a physician of fine reputation. His practice was large, he having, it is said, as many as one hundred cases of typhoid fever, alone, in a season. At one time he was Representative of Ohio county. His second wife, formerly Miss Mattie Heron, daughter of Travis Herndon, of Shreve, survives him.

The seventy years of this good man's life were filled with trust and sympathy and help for those about him. He was a simple, trusting, able. He died a member of the Pleasant Grove Baptist church in full fellowship. In the hearts of many he had found a warm place.

The funeral was held Sunday and was largely attended.

Louisville Tobacco Market.

The sales and receipts were much larger this week and prices generally very satisfactory. In fact we believe the market showed a little more firmness on both leaf and dark tobacco. The class of offerings has been considerably above the average at our warehouse, and we made some fine averages.

A crop of 6 hids. of Shelby county, arranged $10.25.

A crop of 6 hids. of Woodford county, arranged $10.25.

A crop of 3 hids. of Spencer county, arranged $9.85.

A crop of 4 hids. of Henry county, arranged $9.80.

A crop of 6 hids. of Shelby county, arranged $9.58.

All the buyers attended our sales, and bid freely, and we are very much gratified with the support they have given us. Our business has exceeded our expectations, and we desire to thank our friends for the liberal patronage they have extended us. Below we give you our quotations.

Indigestion Causes Catarrh of the Stomach.

For many years it has been supposed that Catarrh of the Stomach caused indigestion and dyspepsia, but the truth is exactly the opposite. Indigestion causes Catarrh. Repeated attacks of indigestion inflame the mucous membrane lining the stomach and excite the nerves of the stomach, thus causing the glands to secrete mucus instead of the juices of natural digestion. This is called Catarrh of the Stomach.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure

relieves all inflammation of the mucous membrane lining the stomach, protects the nerves, and cures bad breath, sour eructs, sense of fullness after eating, indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach troubles.

Kodol Digests What You Eat

Make the Stomach Sweet. Bottles only. Regular size, $1.00, holding 2 1/2 times the first size, which sells for 50 cents.

As when I possessed a no-holds-barred fight with a white man, I was hooked as cool and self-possession as if he had been at "target practice." Time after time as I turned in his direction I saw him go down to a kneeling position to pray, and I would see him looking at the daring of the enemy with a never failing aim. It is nearly thirty years ago, and I can still see before me the closed shut lips and determined expression of his face as he knelt in prayer. And when in my direction, told plainly I had heard me an Englishman in plain clothes, who no danger could appeal. And I felt inclined to run away the cool, firm, and determined expression of his face would have given me fresh courage. I had been previously somewhat prejudiced by others against him, but all such feelings were slain and buried at the funeral of Lord Wolseley's "Recollections." REMARKS.

After dinner Talma was persuaded to recite, to the intense gratification of the abbe, parts from his principal roles. In return Talma begged the ecclesiastic to repeat some passages of his sermons. When he had done so, "It is splendid, monseigneur, as far as this," exclaimed Talma, touching the chest of the preacher, "but the lower part of your body is deplorable! Clearly you have never bestowed a thought upon your legs!"

Great January Reduction Sale

Now Going on at S. B. SCHOPP Cut Rate Store, Stephenson, Kentucky.

It has always been our Ironclad Rule never to carry goods over from season to season and this rule holds especially good right now, as, though our business was exceedingly good this past season, we find when taking our annual inventory too much heavy weight goods on hand which we don't care nor intend to carry over

IF A BIG CUT IN PRICES WILL SELL THEM.

We therefore have started our January Reduction Sale with the intention to make a clean sweep of all odds and ends in every department. All goods of this season's purchase are in every way up to date. Now is your chance to get bargains in Drv floods. Clothing. Boots and Shoes.

We sell all Calicoes at 4 7-8c per yd. Hoosier Cotton 5 3-8c. Other Goods in Proportion.
